Beautify Your Garden with the World's

Finest Roses

FALL 1947 - SPRING 1948

Our rose bushes are all good healthy, field grown. Each bush is labelled true to name. If any prove not true, we will gladly replace them.

All of our rosebushes are budded on Odorata root stock. From tests conducted in many sections of the country, this root stock has proven the best, as hybrid-tea varieties budded on it outgrow and live longer than on other root stocks. We grow all the rosebushes offered for sale in this catalog in our nursery at Stockton. We also exercise the greatest care in digging, packing and shipping so that they get to you in the best condition.

We will replace any bushes that you receive from us that were damaged in shipping if notified within ten days, but do not replace good bushes that are planted and do not grow as there are too many soil and climatic conditions that we have no control over.

The first spring after planting rose bushes only remove old flowers, leaving all stems and leaves possible. If flowers are cut with long stems the first spring it weakens the plants.

All our bush roses, if given the proper care, will bloom for you the first Spring and will continue all Summer and Fall. Climbing roses bloom very little the first year, but will be covered with bloom the second Spring.

Super Rose Bushes

Grown by Raffel's New Method

The method used in our nursery is to plant the wild Odorata cuttings during the winter months, and in the latter part of May or first part of June insert three buds of the hybrid-tea variety instead of one as is usually done. These buds are forced out without removing the growth of the Odorata (wild stock).

By digging time we have very large bushes, all being well branched and with large, well branched root systems. When planted in the garden these bushes require more space than regular bushes as they grow much larger.

When digging these, we cut the hybrid-tea and also the wild tops back to about twelve inches. After planting them in the rose garden, the wild top is allowed to grow along with the hybrid-tea. Plant the "Super Bush Roses" so the lower bud or where they start branching from the main stump will be level with the ground. Cut out any wild growth that may grow from beneath this bud joint, but leave the wild growth which grows out above where the hybrid-teas are budded on. Occasionally a wild branch will grow straight upward. These can be cut out.

The wild growth grows very little after the first year. You may have one bush out of a large number that the wild will show more strength than the hybrid-tea. In this case you must thin some of the wild out. It is best to allow not more than one-half as much to grow the first year, as you have growth on the hybrid-tea top. If you do not care to have this wild growth to spread on the ground, you may cut it part way back, or you can cut it all off and the hybrid-tea bush will be much superior to ordinary bushes. On some of the bushes the wild may die out but you will find they will still be far superior to regular bushes.

When pruning these Super Rose Bushes do not cut the hybrid-tea branches back quite as heavy as you do your regular bushes. If there is less than one-half as much wild growth as hybrid-tea, leave the wild unpruned. But if there is more than some out.

We pay postage to any place in the U. S. A. On all orders in California send 2½% sales tax.
